REV. JAMES C.
BRESNAHAN

CONTRIBUTING WRITER

The first congregation I was pastor of had a small choir of only six people. Not one of the six felt good enough about his or her voice to sing solo. But, blended together by their fine director, they sang with confidence, and their singing was marvelous.

Our Central New York community is better and stronger because our many different faith communities have come together. Through dialogue we have deepened relationships and created understanding and respect among us; and through common service we have assisted those in deep need. The harmonious song that arises is sweet indeed!

The Rev. James C. Bresnahan is past vice-president of InterFaith Works of CNY and co-chairs the World InterFaith Harmony Assembly Planning Committee.
