Harmony is a theme throughout the Christian New Testament. In Matthew, 7:12, Jesus Christ says, "Do to others what you want them to do to you. This is the meaning of the law of Moses and the teaching of the prophets." This passage is commonly referred to as the "Golden Rule."

Studying world religions teaches us that we have much more in common than we realize, as some form of the "Golden Rule" is found in at least seven other major world religions. In other words, living in harmony is a basic tenet of people of faith around the world.
